We believe the APPEAR started the proposition of sonstructing additional school-buildings at either and of the town instead of enlarging the present district school house. At any rate, the question has come to be quite seriously entertained in certain quarters. From a conference with members of the Board of Trustees, we are of the opinion that the time is hardly ripe for the new buildings. In the first place it would be necessary to purchase land. The post of necessary to purchase land. The cost of building the projected houses would, doubtless, not be greatly in excess of the outlay necessary to be incurred in the contemplated addition to the present achool house. But there would be the cost of maintaining two separate buildings—fuel, water and junitor's calary. We expect acceptable official from the Board sensorning this subject, as explicit statement of facts and calculations, before the day set for the election. It seems to us that it will be wise for the taxpayers to be governed in this matter by the matured opinions of the Beard. They are the dectors,

The Prison Title Case In the V. S. Circuit Court.

A jury having been empanneled for the trial of the Prison title case, (known as the Treadway suit), argument of counsel was heard yesterday. Gen. R. M. Clarke appeared for the State and Hou. R. S. Mesick for the Treadway claimants. Gentlemen who were present speak of the argement as dis playing marked ability, on both sides. General Clarke's familiarity with the case and his thorough study of the authorities bearing upon the points involved, enabled him to present his side of the matter with great force and clearness. Judge Sawyer's interrogatories to counsel, at the end of the argument lead to the belief that he will decide against the binding effect upon the State of the Slingerland judgment. He has taken the matter under advise. the State of the Slingerland judgment. He has taken the naster under advisement and will probably render a decision this morning. Should the decision be adverse to the said judgment, that will pretty much end the case, for the present, at least. It is a fact which is obvinos upon the face of the action that the case was one in which James S. Slingerland, himself, as an individual, and not James S. Slingerland, Warden, or Lieutenant-Governor, was the party defendant. We believe was the party defendant. We believe that the only doubt as to the invalidity of the judgment arises from the fact that of the judgment arises from the fact that General Clarke signed his name to some of the papers as "Robert M. Clarke, At-torney General." If he had left his title off there would be but little if any ground for holding the State by the terms of the judgment in question. If this case turns out as we hope it may, the vexed problem of the Prison title will be so far settled as to leave it ne longer a cause for hot debates in the Legislature.

From Abe Richey we learn that the snow at present in Hope Valley is not more than six or eight inches deep. A year ago, at this time, it was cloven feet deep. This looks anything but encouraging for a water supply during the coming summer months. We fear that the mills and ranches needing irrigation will suffer. Abe says the trout are not biting now. Gone spawning, probably. He thinks they will be abundant in May. A varmint he killed up there is expected to arrive here to-day, stuffed. He don't know whether it is a catamount or a lynx. At Gus Lewis' may be seen a brace of eagle wings of immense size, some of Abe's trophies.

COL. FAIR PURCHASES THE BONAN-ZA MINES .- "A deed was filed," says the Chronicle of last evening, "in the County Recorder's office to-day, in which Harris Jacobs gives to James G. Fair a quit claim to the Consolidated Virginia and California Mining ground, being 1,310 feet on the ledge, for $3,500. The deed also states that Jacobs executed a trust deed to the White and Murphy Min-ing Company on May 2, 1861.

PERSONAL .- Hon. J. G. Howard, a former resident of this part of the Great Basin and a member of the second Territorial Legislature, is in the city in attendance upon the U. C. Circuit Court.
Mr. Howard is now a resident of Los Angeles county, California. He notes many improvements in Carson since his sojourn in these parts.

SUDDEN DEATH AT AUSTIN .-- By the Reese River Reveille of March 18 we are informed as follows:

Last evening, at about a quarter past eight o'clock, I. W. Credit dropped dead in Gage, Curtis & Co.'s store. Deceased had been conversing with George Fritz, the delivery clerk, in the rear part of the store for about half an hour, and soon after finishing the conversation, when near the store office, suddenly dropped to his knees, gave one gasp and expired, supposed to have been caused by a finease of the heart. The news of Mr. Credit's death has cast the deepest gloom over the entire community. Deceased was one of the oldest residents of the city, and was universally esteemed. He was a member of Austin Lodge No. 9, I. O. O. F., and Bleese River Pionsers. The deepest sympathy is felt by all with the bersaved widow, in her terribly sudden affiliation. The news of the sad event reaches us at a time when we are unable to accord it more than a brief notice, but we will give a more extended account in our next issue.

HOLD TRAMP,-The Silver State of March 19 tells the following:

of March 19 tells the following:

Yesterday morning, as the passenger train east was passing Kemler's mill, running at the rate of about fifteep miles as hour and increasing its speed rapidly, an agile tramp who had been standing as the side of the track cought hold of the railing on the forward end of the pastal day, next to the engine and, though his feet swung in the air for a minute, he aucocoded in getting a feot-hold and climbed up the steps on to the platform. Conductor Hopkins watched his movements from one of the rear cars and about the time the trains was brought to a stop and he was obliged to vacate the position he had risked his life to at-ials.

St. Paul, Minn., March 20.—The trial of Major Marcus Reno, of the Seventh Cavalry, commanding Fort Arbercrombie, which has been progressing before a court martial here, is drawing to a close. The details are not officially published, but it is known that Captain Bell of the Seventh Cavalry made charges of alleged infamous proposals to Mrs. Bell, slanderous writings, etc., during Bell's absence. Bell's friends informed him of the fac's on his return, and he demanded an on his return, and he demanded an apology. Beaver, Utah, March 20 .- John D. Lee is kept in very close confinement and is guarded by troops. He is evide by relying upon reacus before the day of execution. This is the hot-bed of Mormondom, and Lee has thirty-seven sons and sons in-law who are brave and determined men, and who will let uo opportunity to rescue the patriarch go by unimproved. Lee is very sullen and unimproved. Lee is very sullen and morose, and is evidently bewaiting his fate in the utmost bitterness of spirit. He denounces Brigham Young with a severity born of a deep sense of wrong. The guard at Camp Cameron will be reinforced by a company from Camp Douglass, which will arrive here to morrow. Brigham Young is at St. George, and will have a full report of the execution telegraphed to him. The executioners will not be known to the public: in fact will never be known. They will in fact will never be known to the public: in fact will never be known. They will be concealed and their names given only to the authorities.
